

DECEMBER 4, 2003, 7:13 P.M.

VERBATIM TRANSCRIPT OF CURRY WIRETAP

HC: Yo.

PB: Hey Hakeem, how you doing?

HC: Alright.

PB: What's going on? Everything okay?

HC: Yeah.

PB: Alright, I am real disappointed in the Baskerville case, you know.

HC: Yea, hold on, hold on Paul for one.

HC: Yo, let me call you back right back alright?

(HC then returns to call.)

HC: Yea, hello? Paul.

PB: Yes?

HC: What happened to the Dixon guy? Calling me all day.

PB: What happened?

HC: The Dixon guy or whatever?

PB: They kept the bail at 100,000 dollars. He didn't forfeit the 25,000 dollar bail that he put up. He kept the 25,000 dollar bond that he already put up and just added the 100,000 on the second degree drug case.

HC: Oh, so they not gonna drop it no more?

PB: No, they are not going to drop it anymore.

HC: Alright.

PB: Alnor wants 5000 to get him out.

HC: Oh okay, that Baskerville, it's a tough case right?

PB: It's an impossible case, man.

HC: What he facing, Paul?

PB: What's that?

HC: What he facing?

PB: Like 18 years.

HC: On a plea bargain or losing trial?

PB: Plea bargain, he could get it down to about 13 years.

HC: Hey.

PB: You know, it's crack, you know? I do not know how fuckin' stupid the guy could be, making his own deliveries, you know?

HC: Period, you right.

PB: He placed himself in a very bad position.

HC: Yeah. Hey.

PB: I will just do the best I can you know.

HC: FIGHT FOR HIM. Hey, you talked to him right?

PB: What's that?

HC: He alright?

PB: Yeah, he's okay, he's okay.

HC: Yeah, word.

PB: ANYWAY. I WILL SPEAK TO YOU TOMORROW. JUST WANTED TO MAKE SURE YOU'RE OKAY.

HC: Okay.

PB: Alright brother, bye- bye.

HC: Alright.

END OF CALL.

###

Key

PB = Paul Bergrin

HC = Hakeem Curry